TUD | BERND FESEL 22 09

Bernd Fesel (GER) is the Deputy Director of the European Centre for Creative Economy and was the Creative Industries Advisor for the European Capital of Culture Ruhr 2010.

"Do you know the value the MoMA brand contributes to the brand New York?"

UVA | PAUL LECROART 03 11

Paul Lecroart (FR) is Senior Urban Planner at the Urban Planning and Development Institute in the Paris Ile-de-France Region, working on various (sub)regional assignments. He studied the impacts of major events in world cities and currently researches various large scale urban developments in 15 European cities.

Large scale urban developments in national urbanisation strategies.

ULcDH | ERIC CORIJN 26 01

Eric Corijn (BE) is Professor of Social and Cultural Geography at the Free University of Brussels, Director of COSMOPOLIS City and the Culture & Society Chair at the UAB Urban Studies Network. In his article 'Brussels as an international city' he states that; "a true 'capital city' should be more than the mere location of the power echelons and administrative offices. It should (...) be a place where the global vision is created, produced and represented."

Capital cities and 'Downstairs Globalisation'.

VU | PHILIP MCCANN 08 03

Philip McCann (NZL) is Professor of Economics at the University of Waikato and Professor of Economic Geography at the University of Groningen. In his article 'Universities, Agglomerations and Graduate Human Capital Mobility' he describes how only certain types of higher education institutions play a significant employment role in their local economies.

Higher education institutions and their employment role in local economies.

UU | CHRISTIAN LICOPPE 13 10

Christian Licoppe (FR) is the Head of the Social Science Department at Telecom Paristech. In his research on location-aware communities, he studies how, by the availability of locative media and the activity of play, a variety of encounter formats may turn urban public places into "hybrid ecologies".

From Urban Public Places to 'Hybrid Ecologies'.

EUR | STEPHEN MARSHALL 24 11

Stephen Marshall (UK) is Senior Lecturer at the Bartlett School of Planning in London. In his book 'Cities Design and Evolution' (2008), he researches how cities are put together; both in terms of how different parts are organised in relation to the whole, and how they are created or evolve over time. In his book, he presents a new evolutionary perspective that recognises both the designed and organic nature of cities.

How cities are put together.

ULcL | DOUG SAUNDERS 16 02

Doug Saunders (CAN) is journalist, European Bureau Chief for the London-based 'The Globe and Mail' and author of the book 'Arrival City: The Final Migration and Our Next World' (2010). Through extensive research and the investigative discoveries described in his book, Saunders has questioned and changed the common views on migration, cities, population growth, foreign aid and politics.

"Migration is the most significant and misunderstood global event of our era."

NAi | FINAL DEBATE 29 03

The International Perspectives is organised by Deltametropolis Association in cooperation with the universities of Randstad Holland. Each tIP illustrates, from a different perspective, how facilities or activities are important for Randstad Holland and consequently contribute to its international image.

The results of each tIP lecture and expert meeting will be input for the final debate.

What are the International Perspectives of Randstad Holland?
